Allowable Subject Matter

2. Claims 1, 4-10, 12, 15-29 are allowed.
3. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance

Claims 1 and 12

The closest prior art of Ortel (see reference below) teaches a mechanism for visually indicating to a user on the display when another person is speaking during a conference or online chat. Ortel specifically teaches a process of adding a user indicator while the user is speaking and then removing the indicatory when they are done. The prior art of Lerner (see reference below) also teaches displaying an indicator when the user is speaking. Neither Ortel nor Lerner teaches displaying a gamertag as a form of visual identification. Neither Ortel nor Lerner teach displaying each of a muted icon, a bidirectional mute icon, a null icon and a hear-only icon to indicate to the user their communication capability or status. The prior art of Jenniges et al. 20040203766 teaches a mechanism for displaying icons that represent the communications capability of the user. However, no suggestion is mentioned that would provide for displaying more than one icon as Jenniges teaches displaying a single icon to communicate status. Further, none of the icons represent a null icon, hear-only icon, bi-directional icon or muted icon, as recited in the claims. The prior art of Giaimo et al. 6928329, assigned to the same, teaches a mechanism for allowing the user, during a game, to express verbal commands to control the access to multiple audio streams from other users during a game. The user can also select a series of push buttons to control the audio communications with another user. The system allows for input via a microphone but the system does not display the icons mentioned above. Specifically, the prior art of Ortel, Lerner, Jenniges, and Giaimo either alone or in combination do not suggest or disclose a system as recited in the claims that selectively displays for each player in a column a null icon, hear-only icon, bi-directional icon or muted icon and only when the user is speaking displaying the gamertag along with the icons previously mentioned as recited in the claims.

Art Unit: 2179

Claims 4-9, 15-29

These claims are dependent upon Claims 1 and 12, and are thus allowable.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
